One room of the public school had at the last minute to be moved into the continuation building again as the repairs to their room in the old school building were not yet finished.

Many wonder if it was a wise move to let the new building be put up for sale and the old one kept as it looks like much more money will be spent on fixing up an old building in preference to a much newer one.

In Ontario the wheels of industry turn for the benefit of every single one of us. Our lathes, dynamos, drill presses, farm combines, tractors, business machines, etc., are producing goods and services which earn dollars. These dollars provide food, clothing, medical care and other necessities which contribute to our security and high standard of living. Every single one of us, therefore, has a very personal interest in the flow of a steady supply of trained workers to industrial plants. These workers will operate machines which are important to our way of life.

We should appreciate, then, the co-operative efforts of government, industry and labour in the field of employee training. In schools and in factories our workers, young and old, are given the opportunity to develop new and specific skills in every field of business and industrial activity. For instance, every effort on the part of workers to become proficient in the art of shaping and moulding copper and brass, will mean greater industrial progress—will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and work.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)*Our Way of Life Rewards Trained Hands

Ontario workers know they can earn more, have executive responsibility and enjoy a higher standard of living in direct ratio to the skills they acquire and the way they make use of them. That's always true in a free economy—that's why our competitive system will continue to make Canada great and a great place in which to live.

AN OLD CLIPPING*GOLDEN GLOW
says

Did you ever save clippings from a magazine or newspaper, some article that caught and held your attention, and so you cut it out and laid it very carefully in one of your letter-paper boxes—and promptly forgot it. Then you come across it unexpectedly!

It was just such a clipping I unearthed the other day. If you want to know why I saved it, well I may as well satisfy your curiosity and tell you it was an article by Gordon Lindsay Smith under the heading "In the Garden"—most interesting article on rock gardens, tree planting and how to make a growing screen to hide anything undesirable, like a garage, an ugly back fence or a chicken yard.

But I sure found plenty of other interesting items, both on the same page and in the front of the page. Oh! I didn't tell you, but it was The Era of May 4, 1934, before it joined hands with the Express-Herald—which means it was 15 years ago, five years before the second World War—so the items were 1884 and 1909.

First of all, the front page, May 4, 1934, carries a most interesting picture, by courtesy of the Missionary Record, of the congregation of Sandford church coming out after the service which was celebrating missionary day—and evidently our citizen, Rev. D. G. Cock, D.D., father of Dr. J. G. Cock, who spent 43 years of his life as a missionary to India, was the speaker. You can distinctly see him standing at the extreme left-hand side of the picture, being greeted by the congregation.

Then another picture is one of Mr. James Y. Murdoch, K.C., who had recently been appointed president of The Office Specialty Mfg. Co. Ltd.

It told also in that piece of the front page that Col. W. P. Mullock spoke at a rousing Liberal rally, and in the social and personal items, it says that a radio broadcast on Wednesday night stated that the Hon. T. H. Lennox, M.P. for North York, was taken with a heart attack and was then at his residence in Toronto, with a fair chance of recovery.

Indeed I found many interesting items on the front page, and in the "25 and 50 years ago" still more, especially in the 25 years ago by the "Owl" in the Baldwins Breezes, where he told of Tim Longboat, Brownhill, being a sprinter. "The Owl" said he must be a close relative of Tom Longboat.

Also in the 25 years ago, a reward of $25 was offered for information leading to the perpetrator who poisoned W. A. Brunton's dog.

The old stage between here and Sutton was running in those days, for in the 25 years ago it says: "In addition to the stage mail, the radial is carrying two mails north every day." The radial, you know, was the old Metropolitan Railway running to Jackson's Point, and the stage was a two-horse, double-seated "democratic" which met the stage from the north about at Pine Beach, and was the one and only way of getting to places on Lake Simcoe, this side of Port Bolster and Beaverton, unless one owned a horse and carriage.

A railroad runs to Sutton through Blackwater Junction, or it did, and one runs through Port Bolster, but alas for the folks in between, who did not own a horse-drawn vehicle, until the good old Metropolitan Street Railway came into operation.

Another item says: "Mrs. D. S. Wright left on Monday for Michigan to visit relatives." Now that item recalls the fact that recently Mr. Wright of Chicago found some photos of Newmarket in an old trunk, which Mr. Editor has kindly reproduced for us, and which have caused considerable interest among old-timers here! It mentions Elder Garbutt, and that recalls he was the one for whom Garbutt Hill was named. At the head of Water St. on the north corner of Prospect and Gorham Sts. his old home, now renovated, still stands.

Then another keenly interesting item reads: "The extensive tannery owned by Warden Davis at Kinghorn was burned to the ground on Sunday. $10,000 of unfinished leather and $2,000 in bark, were consumed. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss estimated at $50,000. Insurance $20,000."

Then also in the 25 years ago column it says Hon. E. J. Davis and Mrs. Davis left on Tuesday for Quebec where they will set sail for Liverpool on a two-months' visit in Britain and the Continent.

Good farmers never neglect the well-being of their farm animals, but sometimes put up with conditions which should be changed to lessen their own work, and to improve farm production for greater earnings.

Newmarket Needn't Become 'Just Another Town'

I The Need

We have always enjoyed a visit to the Exhibition Art Gallery but this year, the gallery presented one of the poorest shows we can remember ever seeing. There were individual works which were enjoyable but they were the exception and their small number was not enough to encourage a happier impression of the "101 Famous Masterpieces."

It is no compliment to Mr. Fred Hagan whose lithographs and water colors were displayed at the Horticultural show and exhibition, nor to members of the Newmarket Arts club whose work has been shown in the club's exhibitions, to say that Newmarket has had better showings in its own town hall than that of the Exhibition Art Gallery this year.

We attribute the fault to the policy which directed the selection of works to be shown at the gallery. According to the program introduction, entitled "Which Do You Like," the collection was chosen to present the widest contrast between old and new, conventional and otherwise. The visitor was invited to re-examine his values by comparison. The forward observes:

"New pictures often cause heated arguments among the best trained critics. On the other hand, older pictures often hold affection simply through habit . . . Like old shoes, they are almost like part of one's self." And then, somewhat sententiously, the forward continues: "But the day has come when the most beloved old shoe must be re-examined for value."

Well, old shoes have to be replaced, we grant, but the Exhibition seems hardly the place for it, but if the Exhibition is determined that it be done then and there, at least give us a decent choice. One should leave a gallery with a feeling of excitement, of having been stimulated by the artists' works. We left feeling the time might have been better spent watching the grandstand performance. We can think of nothing worse to say of it.

We suppose much of our disappointment in the art gallery came from its comparison with the generally high level of interest and entertainment presented by the other exhibits. What we saw in the government building and the manufacturers' building was so engrossing that we could have spent another day in those two alone. If the fair has a fault, it is size. It is impossible to see all there is to see in a day, even two days. We spent a Saturday afternoon and evening there and our enjoyment of what we did see is somewhat tempered by the very great deal we missed.

We did the horticultural building thoroughly however and it remains a favorite. The displays were excellent despite the handicap of season and drought that the exhibitors had to contend with. In the centre of the building there is a pool with a very presentable young lady carved in stone pouring a stream of water from a jug she holds on her shoulder. There was quite a crowd around her. The floor of the pool was littered with pennies and silver. As we watched most newcomers added their small change to the collection. No one seemed to know why—they just looked, reached into their pockets, and tossed—with generally a sheepish smile towards their neighbors.

The works department must reap quite a harvest every night when they clean the pool. We were tempted to climb in them and there.

II The Talent

Newmarket abounds in musical talent. It supports a brass band, a trumpet band and an orchestra. It has had a popular choral group. Its schools encourage music, and the performances of out-of-town artists are well attended. Newmarket is equally encouraging to stage performances. A drama group has entered dominion festivals besides providing monthly performances with local casts. A minstrel show with local cast, author and direction packed the town hall.

Nor is Newmarket lacking in the graphic arts with the work of its residents hung in national shows as well as providing two local shows last season. Men and women who live here are known from coast to coast among artists and handicraft people. There is an enthusiastic handicraft group among the women as well as numerous individual talents.

Newmarket is an agricultural centre. It has become the permanent location of the county seed fair and bacon show. With the county agricultural office here, it is the logical location for numerous agricultural meetings. Its horticultural society is one of the larger societies in the province; several members have gained prominence outside Newmarket by the quality of their work.

Newmarket is situated in the centre of an historically rich area. Sharon Temple, surely one of the essentially native developments, is within a few miles. One of the most famous roads of Canadian history passes our western boundary. The area has a strong attraction for members of the Society of Friends and for students of the growth of responsible government in Canada. Time has not removed all landmarks, nor dimmed all memories; there is still much to be seen and heard by the traveller.

The location of four head offices here has given Newmarket's name a certain currency in business circles just as Pickering College has associated Newmarket's name with education and religious matters. Our situation on the route to the lake has made Newmarket familiar to thousands of travellers and the proximity of the lake resorts gives us a huge audience for whatever we attempt if we want it.

III The Advantages

From time to time, Newmarket's blessings are counted publicly. There is the seed fair, and the stage shows, the art and handicraft exhibitions, the band tattoo and the horticultural exhibition. There is the Newmarket Veterans' Association pilgrimage in June. But they have little more than local or special interest, attract few others than those from Newmarket and its immediate district. Individually, they bring little publicity to Newmarket; collectively they represent a sum of local endeavour which if properly encouraged, would make Newmarket synonymous with accomplishment throughout the province—indeed, if the effort was made—throughout the dominion.

But why bother? What profits except local pride? Pride in one's hometown would make the effort worthwhile, but there is more, much more than this to be gained. There is the attraction for the traveller and the business he represents. There is the advertisement of Newmarket for the prospective citizen or businessman. There is the encouragement for our children. There is the greater opportunity for our citizens. These are the tangible gains. Less tangible but just as important is the pride of achievement which filtering to the farthest corners of the town, would give us all the will to even greater accomplishment.

* * *

IV The Means

And how is this to be done? If there is the will, the earnest desire to encourage widespread interest in Newmarket, surely the how of it is not too difficult. Newmarket has had two major events this summer which clearly indicate possible methods of creating for Newmarket something fresh and vigorous.

The first was the gladiolus show which this year took an initial step toward new achievement with the addition to it of an exhibition of merchandise, art and craft. Such was the enthusiasm of those who participated in the show, or visited it, that there is little doubt that next year will see it greatly expanded.

And then last Saturday, there was the band tattoo, sponsored by the Newmarket Trumpet Band. Again, such was the success of the tattoo that the sponsors are planning now for a repeat performance on a different date when they have been assured of at least 25 contesting bands. Here is another possibility, in its infancy now, but capable of developing into a major attraction to Newmarket.

Is it not possible that the tattoo might expand into an annual festival, not only for trumpet bands, but for all forms of musicianship. Could not our dramatic talent be interested, and the conception further enlarged? And does not the success of the gladiolus show suggest the beginnings of a commercial, art and handicraft exhibition attracting county-wide entries? Here are two organizations which have made a start. There have been and will be others.

If there is realization of what can be accomplished and appreciation of the benefits of that accomplishment; if there is recognition of the high order of the talent which exists among us; if there is whole-hearted public support and not mere lip service; if there is the vision and the insight which surmounts the pettiness and small differences which arise when many are involved in an undertaking; if there is all this and the enthusiasm of accomplishment, Newmarket can become a national centre in any one of several fields.

But if we continue to hesitate, to involve ourselves in small concerns until our visions are clouded, Newmarket will remain, for all the effort of individuals and groups, the town with a narrow main street, its highway welcome sign bullet-holed and rusty.

Fellowship Of Sharing

A short time ago, we carried in our news columns the story of a young English boy who lay in York County hospital with a fractured neck, his dreams of making a new home in a new land overshadowed by the knowledge he was helpless in strange surroundings. This boy needed help and when his plight became known, there was help for him.

Does this not strengthen faith in human nature? And are not you who read of these kindnesses encouraged to share in them, or if unable to now, encouraged to share when possible in other causes dependent upon kindness?

We have no way to reckon the worth of human kindness. "It is more blessed to give than receive" and in the giving we know this but are we aware of what our example encourages in our neighbors, or how heartening the succor of one may be to another in desperate straits but unknown to us?

A friendly word, a hard-earned dollar, a magazine, a bit of fruit; these are small enough by some of our standards but they share a common quality which surpasses all such comparisons, the quality of human kindness, the fellowship of sharing.

Letters to the Editor

The Editor: Mr. Sam Dickey of Aurora was today one of the outstanding guest speakers here at the Ontario Inspectors' Assoc. M.O.H.'s and municipal representatives from all over Ontario were present. In his speech he commented on a recent editorial you published in your paper, and gave you great praise for your sound support.

Office Cat reports Catnips By Ginger

According to statistics, half the eggs laid in England come from hens who never move more than a few inches in the whole lives. Big egg executives with mass production scheme have the hens confined to wire cubicles where they are fed continually.

This "battery" system of egg laying saves a lot of labor because as the hen lays the egg, it drops down onto a wire cage, keeps on rolling down a series of runways, down, down into the cellar I suppose, where there is a collection deposit easy money, eggs.

To the rescue of these victims of mass production ride Sir Thomas Moore, M.P., who boomed forth recently he was going to tell parliament to press the minister of agriculture to prohibit the use of the battery system. What more, he was supported by the R.S.P.C.A. (prevention of cruelty to animals).

One poultry editor in reply to Sir Thomas said that those who think the system is cruel assume that a hen has the same intelligence as a human being. "That, of course, is silly," he says. "All a hen wants is to eat and drink and avoid the pecks of its neighbors. This it can do more comfortably in a battery."

Hen experts used a practical experiment of allowing battery hens to go free. Their startling answer was that nine out of ten refuse to come out of their cubicles and 1 out of 20 of those who do, go right back in! It would appear that the hens are pretty dumb clucks.

I think the whole thing is economic and political. The English hens are victims of a new socialized state and an austerity program. Heaven knows there are not many eggs as it is over there and if the hens start complaining, where are you?

In Russia, hens are sent to the salt mines if their egg production is too low. In America though, they have rooting-tooting hens who speak in terms of marginal this and marginal that and if they can't get their price, they don't lay.

The weather report in an English paper "Not a day for the seaside unless you take a raincoat and some woolies." Whoever would want to go to the seaside in a raincoat and some woolies? Imagine Betty Grable!

Dear Boss:
The hen report I have written above took a good deal of research and hard work. But that superior type of reporting can't go on much longer on these starvation wages. I simply have to have some compensation for my undying loyalty and enthusiasm for this here organization. I ask only a seven-cent weekly raise to make it dollar. My family is starving.

With vehemence, Ginger
Chazz the printer says that relations between his department and the management are coming along nicely even though the folding machine breakdown caused much grief recently. Being office cat in charge of much grief when it arises, luckily a crisis was avoided.

by "Back Concession" The Top Six Inches

We wonder just how it would work out if the tables were turned. Suppose we farmers would say to business men who produce farm supplies, "You snap your produce out to the farm. We, the farmers, will set the price and send you a statement less charges. You the producer will have nothing to say about the price."

Some time in the past someone made that kind of business suggestion to the farmer. Strange but true, there are farmers who accept and today do business under this condition. These farmers who snap their livestock to the packing plants are doing just what was suggested at the first of this article.

The farmer loads his stock on the truck and has nothing to say about the price paid. They are truckers, who under the head of getting the farmer a better price, encourage the farmer to snap to the plant instead of the stock yards. And the reasons given are that the yard fees and commission are saved for the farmer, that a farmer gets a better grade and a better price at the packing plant. The packers find themselves in a favored position as there is no yard fee or commission at the plant. As for a better grade at the plant over the stock yard, a grader could not mark up the grade because when the meat board came to sell the bacon and the grade was not right it would come back on the grader.

And for one plant to pay a better price would mean that they would get all the stock. We have no fault to find with a trucker if he has some arrangement with the packer. Under the hog marketing act filed May 27, 1949, the trucker can take out a processor's license and work for the packing plant or a shipper's, or a producer's license and work for the farmer.

It has been brought to my attention of the hog producers that some truckers are buying hogs and not giving the government premium. If you are not receiving the premium on your hogs it is your duty to report to your township hog producers' committee. If you should have so little interest that you do not know who is on that committee, you may obtain that information from the agriculture office.

We do not know how the price of hogs is set. It would seem if the majority of hogs went to the packing plants the price would be struck without any bargaining. If the majority went to the stock yard the commission men would bargain for a price. We suggested to a farmer that shipped to the plant who told how well he had done, that we could do away with the stock yard and all ship to the plants. He said no, we need the yards to have a check on the price. We have not found any farmer that would favor doing away with the yards.

It is very hard to follow the reasoning of some farmers. They will not support the yards and want someone else to pay yard and commission fees. And yet they know the real value of competitive selling of stock. We pay condemnation insurance on all stock shipped to market. How much does this amount to a year and how much is used? We were at one time docked for horns on cattle $1.00 per head. The farmers began to ask questions and talk. This was stopped and no report was made of what was done with the funds. We think that there would not be as much fluctuation in stock prices if all buyers had to compete on the open market. Cheero,

Foote-Notes

BY WILLIAM FOOTE
AURORA EDITOR

During the past few weeks the problem of the tannery odor has taken top municipal priority. Public interest has been especially great and the reception given the petition requesting action to eliminate the odors has been overwhelming. While the committee sponsoring the petition is small, many have rallied around and contributed liberally of time and effort to further the work of the committee and ensure that the petition reaches everyone.

There are many reasons for this all-out support of the committee and the petition. Most obvious is the nature and effect of the odor upon the individual citizen. More often than not, the odor starts as suddenly as it stops. By and large the effect is one of immediate nausea. This plays havoc with sleep and meals, and of course work.

The odor, however, has even more serious consequences. At the present time Aurora is expanding rapidly. A recent news item carried in the Newmarket Era and Express told of the tremendous number of houses and other buildings constructed in and near Aurora so far this year. Of ideal location, Aurora should attract many industries and companies in their search, so common since the war, for suburban locations for their plants.

Too, Aurora is desirable geographically as a location for an increasingly popular suburban residential area. Aesthetically pleasing and with a good business district, it is handy to both Toronto and outdoor recreational facilities.

However, so long as the tannery odor afflicts the town and the people as it does at present, expansion will be limited. Also bound to suffer are land values. An odor such as the one in question is bound to detract from the value of property. The setting may be beautiful, but . . . !

Another important aspect of the problem is the tourist trade. It is to the advantage of the town to attract as many tourists each season as possible. Business generally receives a boost. Yet, who will stop for the night if they get a good whiff of our local perfume, and who will return a second time if he once gets a lungful of our "Tannery No. 5"?

There is only one answer. It is emphatically stated on the petition now being circulated. Council must face this problem, and must realize that the people of Aurora are desperate for a solution. Many solutions have been attempted, and council may feel that the problem has been hashed and re-hashed many times already to no purpose. This attitude must go by the board. The problem must be faced anew, and licked!

The accident toll on Highway 27 took a turn for the better during the week previous to the Labor Day weekend. Only one accident, of minor nature, was reported, during that period. Credit must be given to the officers of the Ontario Provincial Police, whose unceasing vigil has done much to prevent the reoccurrence of such tragedies as those at Cemetery Hill earlier this season.

Letters to the Editor

The Editor: I would like to congratulate the Newmarket Trumpet Band on the extremely fine show they put on last weekend, with the help of the out-of-town bands. Fine work, boys, more power to you.

Not long ago the Newmarket Horticultural Society put on a very fine exhibition. It was as good as any small town can put on using all its resources. In this case the Society hardly scratched the surface, as far as getting exhibitors was concerned.

Another while back we had a fine parade put on by the Newmarket Veterans.

All of these separate shows were good, but imagine what an effort it could be if all got together and really had a show or fair. I am sure all merchants, exhibitors, artists and craftsmen in town and surrounding district would be as willing to co-operate as every other citizen. Let's plan early for 1950.

Yours sincerely,
Rudy Renzius.

Editor's note: What about this? We believe Mr. Renzius speaks for a good many people in his letter. Newmarket is rich in talent. It is obvious that if all brought together, Newmarket would have a showing second to none. Let us hear from others on this. It is the weight of public encouragement which brings these suggestions to fruition.

Weekly Garden-Graph

Grapes should be handled as little as possible during picking and storing, since the slightest bruise or break in the outer skin may set up decay. If one injured fruit is permitted to come in contact with other sound fruits in storage, all may become affected.

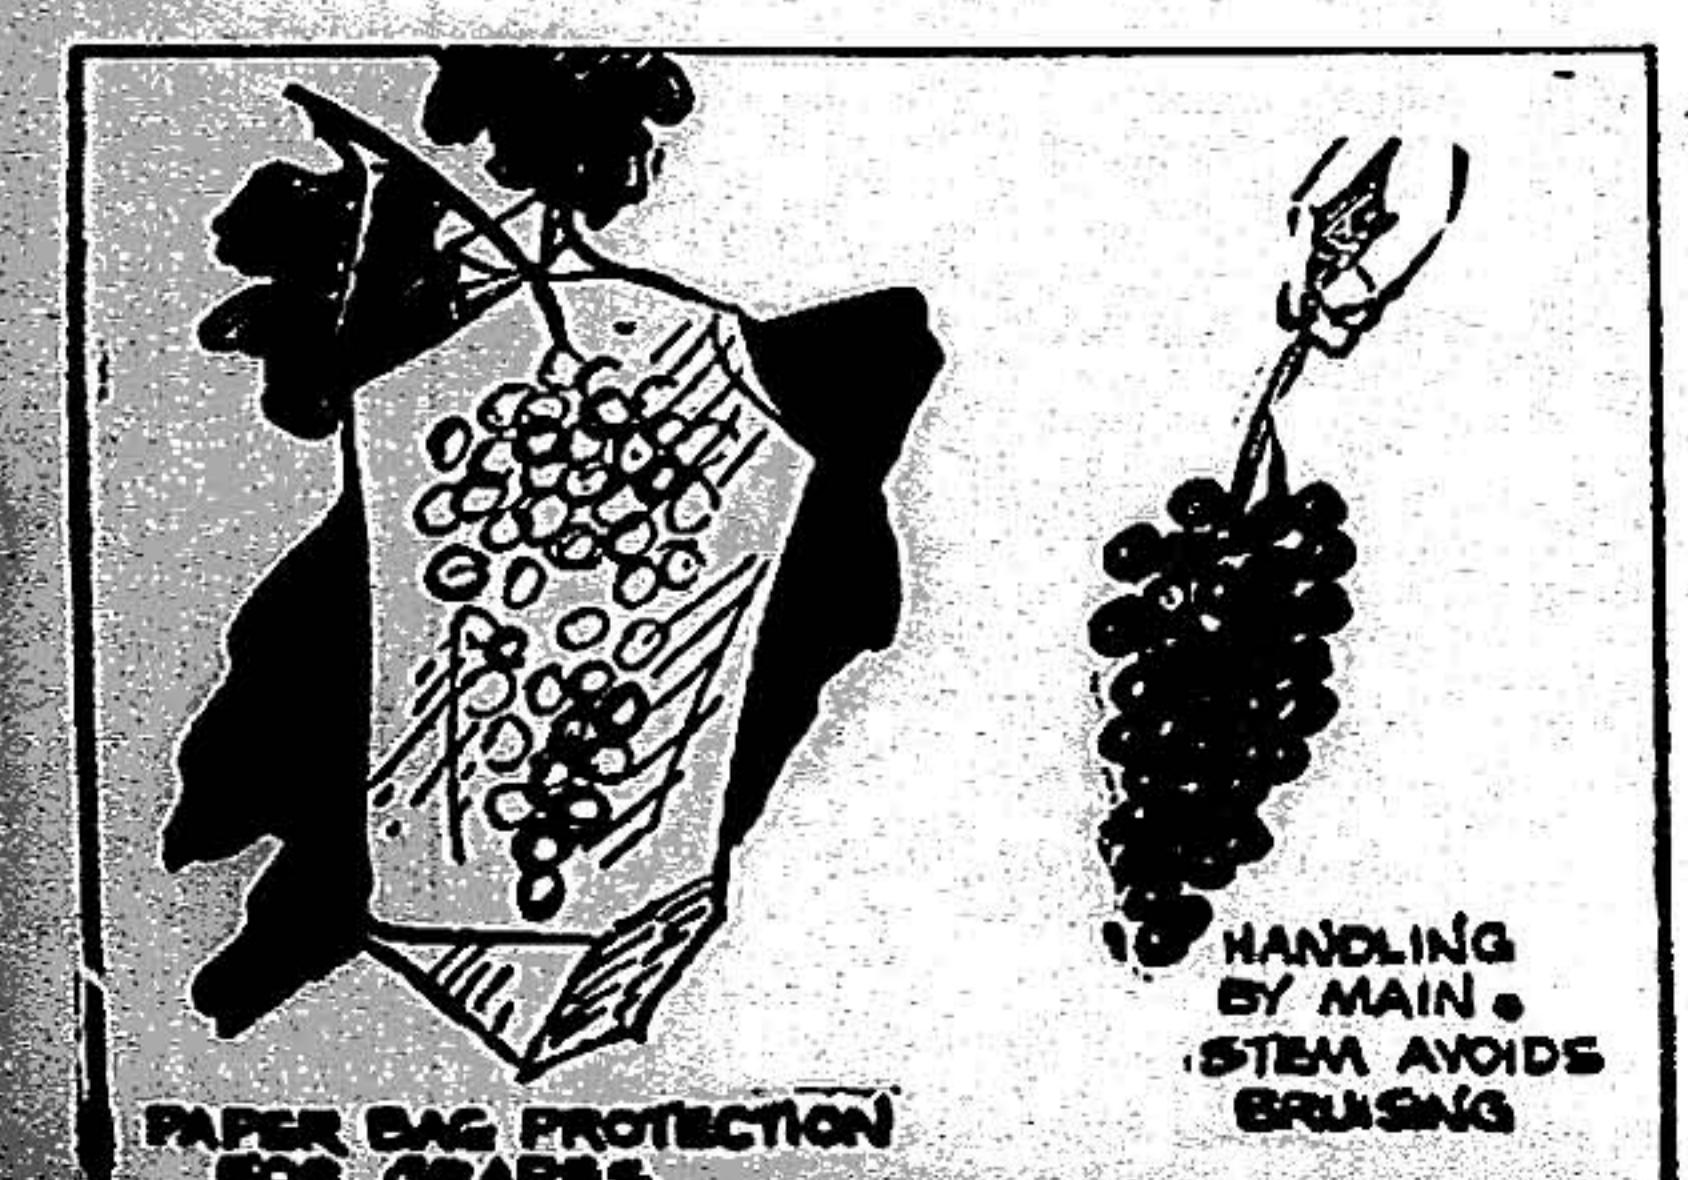

To protect the ripening fruit from birds and insects many home gardeners resort to covering each full bunch of grapes with a paper bag, as shown in the accompanying Garden Graph. The bag should be tied at the top and the bottom corners snipped off to allow any rain water that may seep into the bag to drain away.

If, after waiting anxiously for your grapes to come in bearing, you find that many of the fruits are shrivelled and "nummified" it is most likely that it is the result of blackrot.

Black rot is the most destructive fungus disease of grapes. It directly attacks and destroys the berries as well as causing tell-tale spotting of the leaves. Remove all infected berries this fall and burn them. Next spring spray the vines well with Bordeaux mixture.

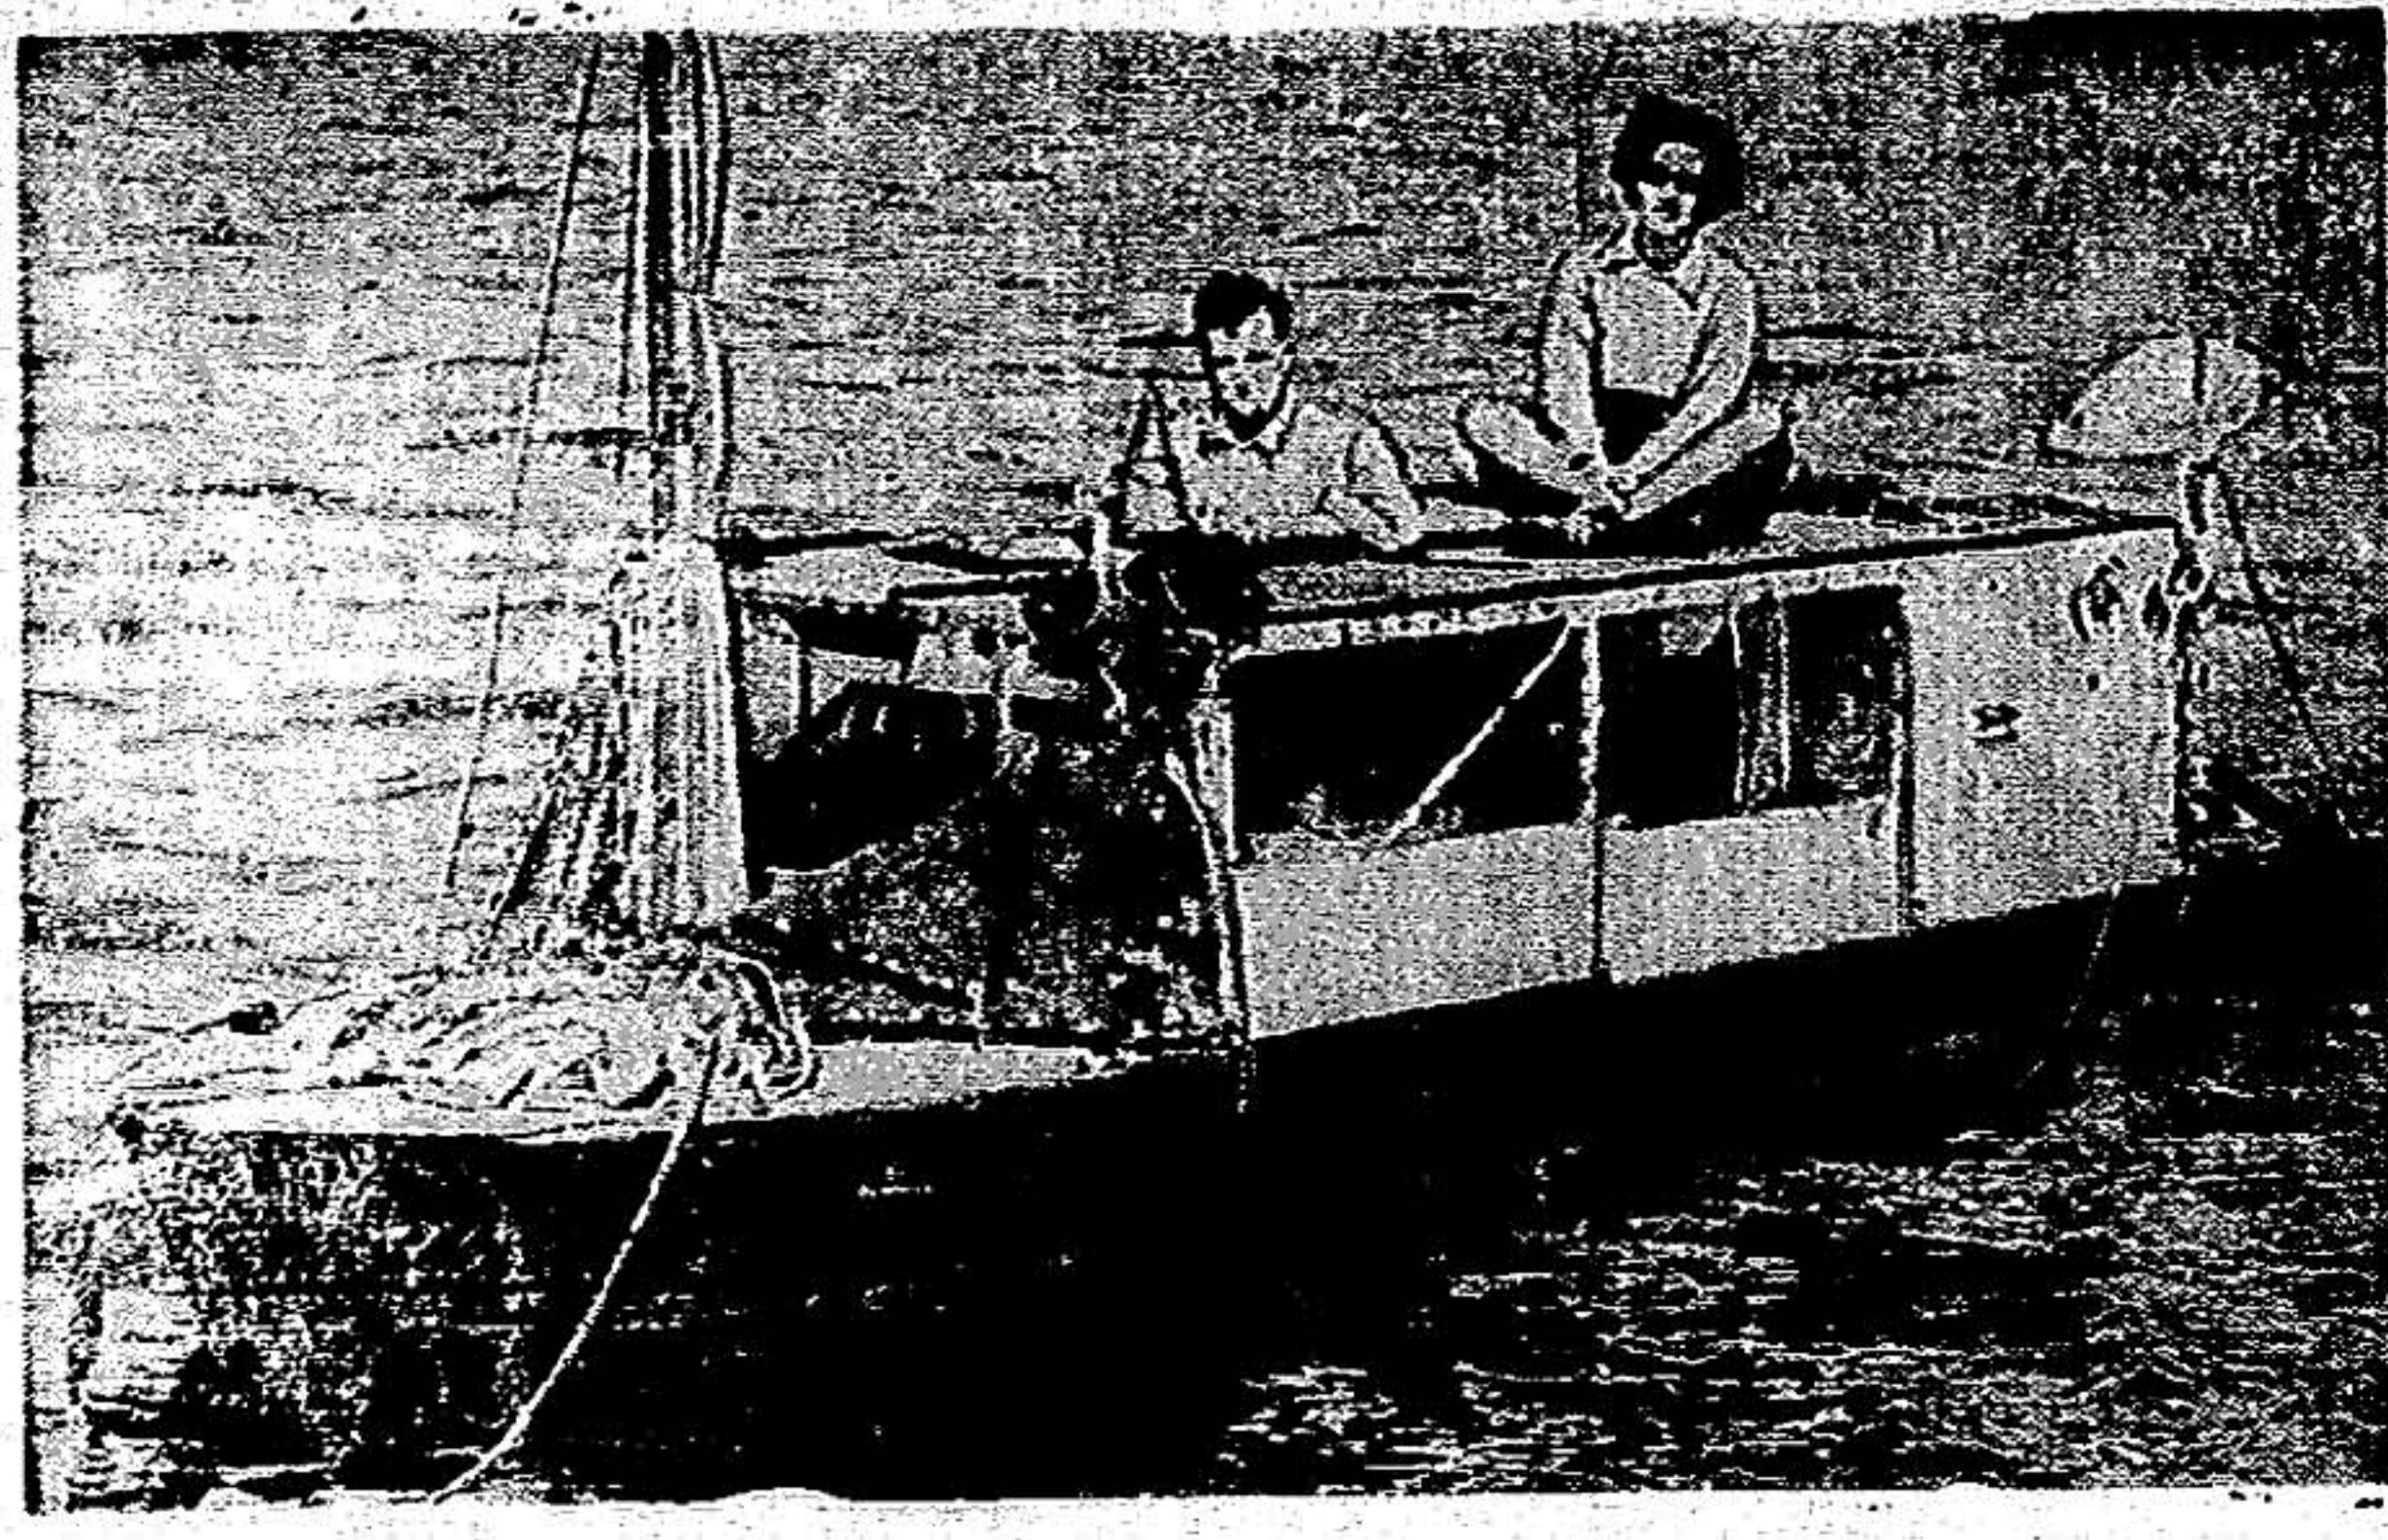

The best way to handle grapes in gathering them for storage is by the main stem, as illustrated, and there are several ways to store them for home use. A good method is to lay them in a single layer on clean, soft hay on a shelf. Do not crowd them and examine them at intervals so that any rotting berries can be removed.

If stored in this way in a cool, moist, well-ventilated room and protected from sunlight, grapes will keep for several months.

PAPER BAG PROTECTION FOR GRAPES

Around the world trip is planned by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Carlin, Halifax, in the "Half-Safe," a converted amphibious jeep. The "Steep," as they call the machine, will make 45 m.p.h. on highways, and three to six m.p.h. in water. Last year the "Half-Safe" developed engine trouble seven days out of Halifax and they were picked up by a passing freighter.

Keswick News

Keswick—The Saturday night show with Whipper Billy Watson as the main attraction was a great success financially, educationally and of entertainment value. The young lads will never forget his visit and talk. There is sure to be a return at a later date.

The Christian church and Sunday-school held a very enjoyable picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Anderson, Sutton, on Monday afternoon. A special bus was chartered for the occasion.

School opened Tuesday for half a day. Miss Roslyn Van Norman is the new principal and Miss Nancy Daley of Magneta has charge of the second room. Later the younger grades are to have another teacher and a room in the Memorial Centre.

Mrs. Jack Cameron and Miss B. Terry spent Friday in Toronto at the "Ex." Miss Glad Nichols, Toronto, was a holiday weekend guest of Mrs. Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland and two sons of Weston were weekend and Labor Day guests of Rev. and Mrs. Serrick.

Miss Elma Bond and Mrs. Hunter of Guelph were weekend guests of Miss B. Terry. Mrs. Hunter is remaining for two weeks.

Mr. Munro Mann was at home from Detroit for the Labor Day weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fogg, Toronto, and Judge and Mrs. Brock Currey, Manitoulin, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leppard.

A crowded church hall of well-wishers met Tuesday evening to wish the Rev. Redvers Brown "au revoir." They were presented with several gifts from the different church groups and a bulging envelope of financial help. Mr. Brown in reply urged everyone to give their full support to the new minister and spoke feelingly of the pleasure he derived in serving the Keswick church. Everyone present felt after his parting message to them that it had been one of the most Christian-like messages they had ever heard.

Unfortunately the auditorium in the Memorial Centre was not completed in time for the school board to be able to use it for a week or so. Most of the furniture is on hand and the new hall will make a very adaptable quarters for the younger classes who were crowded out of the school. We feel that the foresight and determination of the few who have worked so diligently to have the building completed in time for school is worthy of great praise. The reason it is not ready is not due to any blame that can be placed on the school board or the building committee.

The Memorial Centre is already in use several nights a week. Last Thursday evening the local W.I. held a very successful opening euchre. Plans are in progress for the first big dance in the auditorium with a name band that will bring enthusiasts from many miles away.

The Optimist Club is a busy group of men these days and help is rolling in from all over the province from other Optimist Clubs in recognition of the wonderful project they are sponsoring. No new club has ever tackled such a big job and every civic-minded person, especially Optimists all over Canada, will be glad to see the great success they are sure to have. No president of any organization has given more time, leadership and enthusiasm to a project than has President Clayton Purdy. He needs your help. Never mind even if you are a late starter. Start now.

Thanksgiving Day is the day tentatively set for the disposal of the Dodge coupe and a grand opening of the centre. This should be the greatest celebration in the history of the township.

We are to welcome a new minister in the United church Sunday morning and let us do it in a true Christian-like manner. Special music is being arranged. There will be one or two solos by Miss Leonore Eaton, a soloist.

MOUNT PISGAH

Bowmanville Takes Aurora Two Straight

Displaying the fitness and confidence that comes from good coaching, plenty of stiff competition, and all-around power, Bowmanville juveniles ousted Aurora in straight games at Aurora and Bowmanville. The Durham county boys edged out an 8-7 win at home last Thursday and on Saturday afternoon over the nine-inning route they smothered the local kids 11-5 to enter the third round of the O.B.A. juvenile "B" playdowns. The Aurora lads gave a stirring display in Bowmanville and were unlucky not to win the contest. Before their largest crowd of home fans, the Altenites played jittery ball and six juicy errors spelled disaster.

Ron Simmons hurled the away game and but for the third inning when the home team went for six runs he had the Bowmanville boys eating out of his hand. Aurora led 6-1 when the uprising occurred and although both teams scored a run each, the one-run margin held. Stephenson, McKnight and Winters played strong games for Aurora. Jack "Lefty" Buttonshaw got credit for the Bowmanville win.

At Aurora Gerry Simmons was on the hilltop and the team played without Ron Simmons who was at work. "Corky," aside from his bad habit of lengthy wind-ups, pitched a good game allowed 11 hits, fanning six and walking five. Buttonshaw gave up eight hits to Aurora, whiffed three and walked six in taking his second straight win. Short-stop Dean West, and first-sacker Spencer Creamer were prominent in the Bowmanville cause getting three hits apiece and fielding in fine fashion. Gerry Hugo and Taylor paced the Aurora offensive with two hits each, with Simmons, Gibson, Wilkinson, McKnight and Winters getting one each. It was an even struggle until the fourth when Bowmanville scored three times to erase a one-run lead held by Aurora. They added three more in the fifth for good measure and from there in the North Yorkers were behind the eight ball. Gibson and Closs played fine games afield for Aurora.

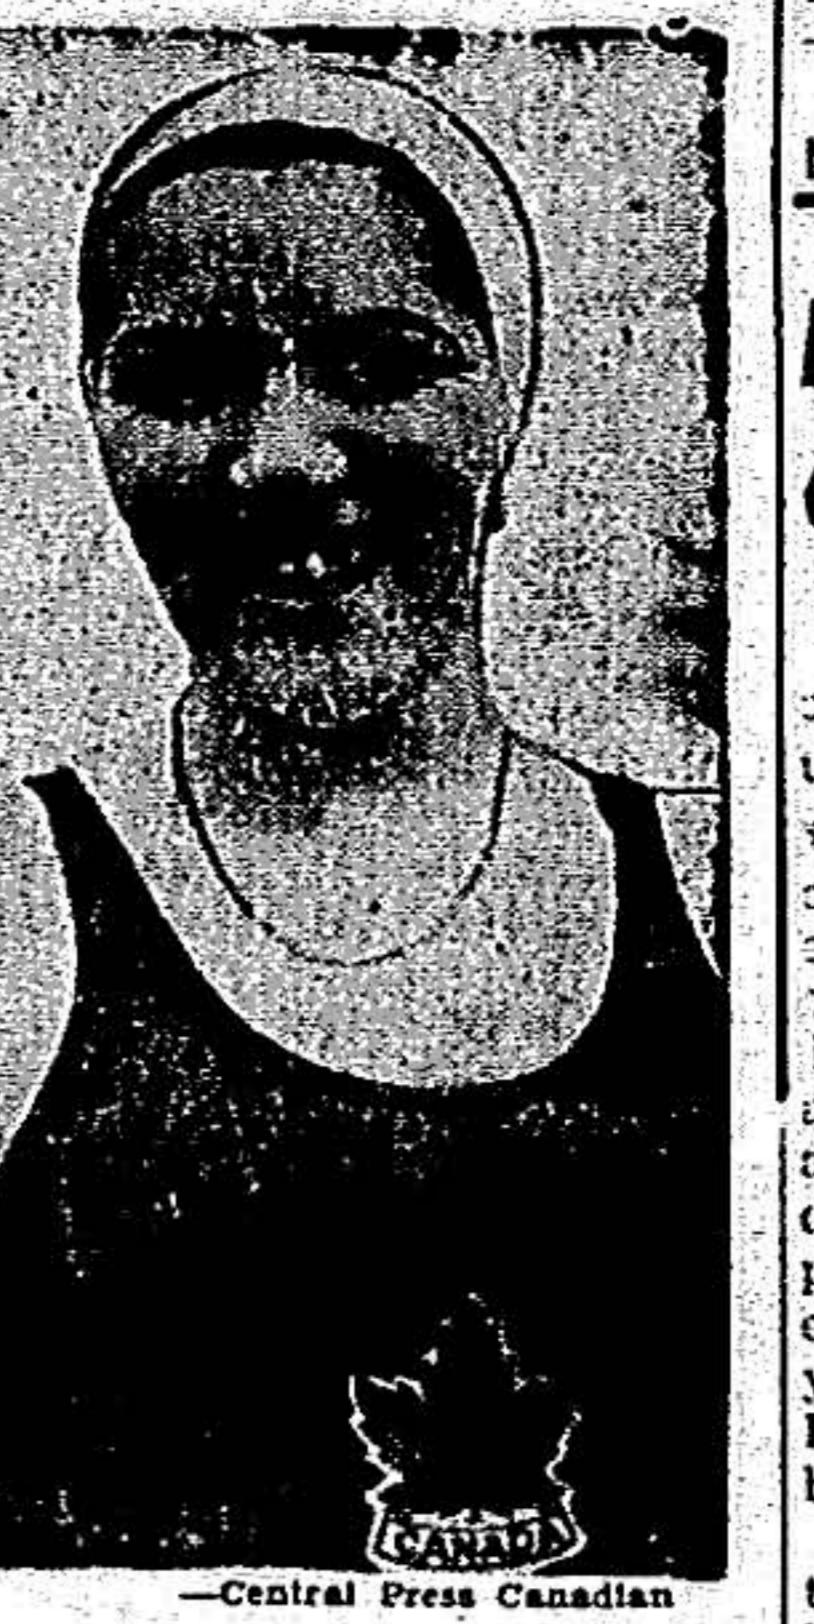

With the season over, there can be much reminiscing of what might have been but actually in view of the lack of competition over the year, and the many difficulties encountered by the club Bill Allen and his boys can take a bow for their efforts.

Mr. Bennett joined National Research in October, 1945, and has been a technician with the flight research department. He was with De Havilland at Toronto, starting in 1940 and working in the research department from 1942 on.

Unofficial reports say that the wing will be scrapped and sent to the air museum in Ottawa, but there are still experiments to be done with the wing such as stalling and spinning the glider. Before the aircraft can be put into a spin, however, modifications to the wing must be made to install wing para-

Canadian amateur men's swimming champion is George Bevins, 16, Winnipeg, who nosed out William Ross, California, in the mile race at the Canadian National Exhibition. He defeated 70 entries from U.S. and Canada to win the event.

Winning woman miler at the

C.N.E. was another westerner, Vivian King, 20, Winnipeg. An Olympic swimmer, Vivian swam the mile in 26 minutes, 12 seconds, only one minute behind the men.

NEW AND EXCITING

Parting From Pup Only One Of Back To School Problems

"School days, school days, dear old golden rule days," are with us once again. For some youngsters, Tuesday was the opening of a new and excitingly different way of life for they were off to school for the first time. To others it was a day met with a feeling of sadness and slight apprehension for those carefree days of summer vacation were past and if their memories served them correctly, school last year wasn't quite as grand as Dad and Mom had led them to believe.

The reactions among the grade one youngsters varied from a casual indifference to the entire proceedings to a shy renewing of acquaintances. To them, they are practically full grown. One lad asked his mother, "Will I be going to high school next year?" Yes, they are growing up and to some mothers the fact caused more than a slight lump-in-the-throat feeling. However, it was with a definite sense of relief that one remarked, "Boy, am I glad that school started. With my four, I doubt if I could have lasted another week's vacation."

Among the jelly bean crowd turning out in full force for the kindergarten class were many beaming faces, scrubbed to shining elegance to match the new haircut. A few of the small boys had a wide band of white below the rim of the new haircut and above the tanned neck showing where some economizwill probably continue with the flight research department of the Council at Arnprior, Ont.

SHOEING COMPETITION AT PLough MATCH

The plowing match this year will take place on the farm of H. W. Amy, near Bursford, which is just west of Brantford in Brant county.

In one of the horse-shoeing contests, each competitor will be required to make a pair of shoes from a straight bar of iron and toe-clip and fix them, all in 55 minutes. Three prizes are offered.

In another event, ready-made shoes are to be used. Each competitor will be asked to culk, toe-clip and fix a pair of ready-made shoes in 43 minutes. Tools will be provided by the competitor. Horses, shovels, nails, anvils and hammers will be provided. Use of files or wire brushes is prohibited.

There are five horse-shoeing classes listed in the program with prizes for each. A final competition will follow for those winning the various groups. From this final will emerge Ontario's champion horse-shoer. As evidence of his prowess he will receive a trophy. However, the challenge cup must be won three times before it becomes the permanent property of a contestant.

Newmarket Man In Flying Wing

chutes. There is no official word whether the experiments will be continued, according to Mr. Bennett.

Purpose of the wing is purely experimental. The National Research Council records all the data about the advantages and disadvantages of aircraft without a fuselage and the information is given to all aircraft manufacturers. One purpose of the council is to enable research to go on in Canada because there are not enough large companies which can afford research departments. The present wing is merely a prototype and would not be modified for engine power.

The craft was built in Ottawa at the Montreal Road laboratories of the Research council. It carries two men. Experiments with tailless craft go together with present trends in design.

Most new aircraft tend to have swept-back wings but still retain a fuselage. The flying wing is seen as the craft of the near future. Disadvantage of aircraft with tail assembly is that it can't be loaded at the rear but the load must be around the centre of gravity, close to the wing. A flying wing can be loaded over the whole area of the craft.

Mr. Bennett, whose home is at 11 Millard Ave., said that if the Research Council dispenses with the flying wing experiments, he will probably continue with the flight research department of the Council at Arnprior, Ont.

A lawn rehabilitation program, to be launched at once, is proposed by J. A. Carroll, secretary, Ontario Horticultural Association. "We have never seen so many sick lawns with thin grass, bare spots, and in some places large areas completely dead and now overgrown with late summer weeds, that we feel something should be done," Mr. Carroll says. He adds that most common weeds include lamb's quarters, pig-weeds and purslane.

The condition is most severe in areas hit by the almost unprecedented drought of the past summer, he says. Many lawns had been already weakened by the very dry August and September of 1948 and did not regain strength in the months of May and June, which normally are most growing, but this year were very dry.

"Fortunately there is no better time for renovating lawns than in early September," he states.

"Fall application of fertilizer should be made now. Large bare spots should be broken up, treated with fertilizer and seeded with the type of grass or mixture best suited to soil and location. Sodding would be a quick way, but many find that this is too costly and that sods free from weeds are hard to get."

Mr. Carroll points out that there are 175 horticultural societies in Ontario and the officers are ready and willing to give expert advice on local conditions. Printed material on lawns, flowerbeds and home beautification can be obtained by writing the horticultural societies branch, Ontario department of agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, or to the publicity branch, department of agriculture, Ottawa.

There are five horse-shoeing classes listed in the program with prizes for each. A final competition will follow for those winning the various groups. From this final will emerge Ontario's champion horse-shoer. As evidence of his prowess he will receive a trophy. However, the challenge cup must be won three times before it becomes

'Bridge Takes Vets 8-7 First Of Semi-Finals

When a pitcher sends down 13 of the opposition swingers via the strike-out route and allows a stingy six hits you'd naturally expect he'd won a victory. That's what Bill VanZant did Friday evening in the first game of the North York League semi-finals against Woodbridge. But did he win? No he did not. Bill lost a tough 8-7 decision. Reason — the Vets failed to accord him any support. They committed ten errors, enough to cause the best of pitchers to turn in his union card. Woodbridge taking full advantage of the situation, pushed into a 6-2 lead at the end of four and nursed it through to an 8-7 win. That gives the Bridgers a one-game lead in the best three out of five series.

The Vets grouped a pair of hits in both the first and second for single runs. A double by Harvey Gibney and a single by Mickey McNulty did the necessary in the first. John Hisey and Harvey Gibney collaborated for the second marker.

Woodbridge got along to building up a lead in the third bridge on 13 hits against six, on two hits and three errors that gave them four runs. Another two miscues and a hit added two more in the fourth.

Woodbridge tacked on a run in the sixth and Bill VanZant gave Nimo Robinson, Woodbridge's third sacker, something just a little too good to swing on in the seventh and it whipped over the right field fence. That was their eighth run and later proved to be the winner.

Down three runs in the ninth high hopes were held for that rally that got underway as Norm Legge laid down a perfect bunt. Ken Tupling strolled and Joe Tunney tripled them home. But the rally bogged down and finally moaned to a stop as Mickey McNulty skied high to short and Ted Mosler went down pitched to first. Joe Tunney was left at third with the tying run.
